I have been working for the U.S. Department of Agriculture since June, 2000. I began my career as a Consumer Safety Inspector in FSIS in Southern California working in numerous food processing and slaughter plants until 2008 when I moved to Oregon and transferred to ARS. After joining ARS I returned to college, attending online, and earned my MBA in Human Resource Management from American Intercontinental University (April 2013). As an Administrative Assistant, my duties are varied and many. I enjoy the personnel and human resource planning aspect the most; the contact with our customers and assisting them with their needs offers a lot of satisfaction.

I live in Corvallis near Oregon State University and find it a welcome change to life in Los Angeles, California. I am very fortunate to have two wonderful doxies to share what little spare time I have. I am even getting used to the continuous rain we experience and have learned to accessorize with umbrellas!
