I joined ARS in 2007 as the Office Automation Assistant at the Western Wheat Quality Laboratory in Pullman, WA. I come from a farming background but spent my college years studying English and Political Science – receiving a B.A. in English Literature from Montana State University in 2003 and a M.A. in Rhetoric and Composition from the University of Idaho in 2006. Moving back into an agricultural field was an unexpected turn but one I have enjoyed. My duties include time & attendance, travel arrangements, website management, ARIS entries, monitoring agreements, assembling reports, preparing charts and graphs, and helping maintain WAS (the Wheat Analysis System, pronounced “Wäz”) – our in-house software program for recording, storing, and analyzing data.

A married mother of two, I enjoy spending time with my family, reading, being involved in my church community, cross-stitching, and playing outdoors with my children. I also love technology and am always excited to try out a new software program.
