

They said that neither rain, nor sleet, nor hail could stop a scientist meeting. They were right.

Even without heat, FRRL scientists are still on the job discussing Focus Group feedback for developing the new strategic plan