

The Henry A. Wallace Beltsville Agricultural Research Center Public Field Day

September 10, 2016 10am - 2pm

Welcome!

Come and experience over 18 exciting research exhibits  Discover the wonders of Ag Research and how it fits into our everyday lives.

Under the Big-Top Tent:

- Technology-Driven Solutions to Agricultural Problems
- Building Blocks for Better Animals
- Observation beehive, beekeeper equipment and outfits, displays of research and beekeeping.
- Plants and a Changing Climate
- Microbes in the water that we use
- Contamination detection and sanitation inspection for food production and processing
- Compost maturity and use for growing food.
- Sensing Our World
- Agricultural Pest Control, Naturally!
- Innovative Strategies to Combat Plant Diseases
- Diversity for the Future of Agriculture: Safeguarding Plant Genetic Resources
- A microscopic window into the unseen world of agriculture
- Cost-effective and environmentally friendly strategy to control pathogen of beans.
- Sustainable Tropical Plant Research
- How Insects Impact Our Food and Fungi and Agriculture: the good, the bad, and the weird.... and more

Live and Learn Ag Research for a Day!

Other Activities: Face painting, Visits to Farm Fields, Large Ag Equipment on Display, Health Unit, Friends of Ag Research (FAR-B) and Beltsville Lions Club-sponsored Food for Sale

